

Longworths Threatened By Alleged Anarchists

Man With Mysterious Cigar Box Said to Have Haunted Steamboat Pier With Intention of Blowing Up the Bridal Pair.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A crank carrying a cigar box, which he said carried an infernal machine, created considerable excitement at the steamboat pier today when Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth sailed for the other side.

The honeymoon couple started for Europe on the American liner St. Louis to be gone two months.

The crank created no little excitement by threatening to blow up Longworth and his wife.

Reported to Police.

The man was prowling around the pier making inquiries as to the whereabouts of the Longworths, but when Police Roundsman McCoy and patrolmen went to look him up, he had disappeared.

The presence of the crank was reported to McCoy by a man who said there was an anarchist on the pier. He said he had been approached by the supposed anarchist, who had displayed a cigar box and announced his intention of blowing the Longworths to pieces.

"I'm an anarchist," the suspect is said to have declared, "and I am against all plutocrats. My name is Antonio Iglio, and I live in Fulton street."

As soon as word of the presence of the crank reached the authorities the boat was searched for him, and a guard was established to see that he should not get aboard. It is believed he became alarmed and left the pier long before the St. Louis sailed.

The departure of the Longworths was very quiet and unpretentious, indeed.

Talked of Politics.

Mr. Longworth talked to interviewers on the promenade deck. He said that his political opponent in Cincinnati this time was likely to be Thomas Horstman. A very good man, as he expressed it.

"I am therefore obliged to come back as early as possible in August," he added. Somebody asked him about the chances of George B. Cox, former boss of Cincinnati, and suggested that he bring a stiletto back with him from Italy to use on Mr. Cox during the campaign. Mr. Longworth's reply was:

"I do not need a stiletto for Mr. Cox. He is down and out."

Posed Before Cameras.

The photographers were there, of course, and asked if he and his wife would not pose for them.

"Why, I guess we will," said Mr. Longworth, with a laugh. "I suppose it's got to be done, hasn't it?"

They posed for nearly five minutes, patiently and smilingly, while the cameras clicked like a busy day in a needle factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth appeared to be both in fine spirits.

ARKANSAS STATE SENATOR CHARGED WITH BOODLING

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 2.—A bench warrant has been served on Webb Covington, president of the last State senate. He is already under indictment in two cases for alleged "boodling" in the last Legislature.

The last warrant was issued on a new indictment returned in connection with alleged extensive "boodling" charges against legislators. It is said three new indictments have been returned and that other arrests will follow. In all, thirty members of the house and senate are charged with complicity.

BOYS BECAME THIEVES TO ENTERTAIN THEIR GIRLS

VIENNA, June 2.—A boy twelve years of age was recently arrested here for the theft of a cash box containing $200. At the trial it was shown that the boy had committed 153 thefts in the course of the last two years. Although his elder brother, aged fifteen, has also been arrested, it appears that the younger of the two, whose name is Frank Mende, committed his 153 crimes on his own initiative.

Both boys spent the greater part of their gains, amounting, it is believed, to several hundred dollars, in entertaining girls of their own age.

SOUTH POLE BALLOON EXPEDITION BY DE VAULX

PARIS, June 2.—Comte Henry de la Vaulx, who has arrived in Paris from New York, has been telling his plans. He says he will accompany Dr. Charcot on his next Antarctic expedition and will attempt to reach the South Pole in a balloon. M. de la Vaulx says:

"I will not use a dirigible balloon. I do not think these machines are suitable for Arctic climates. The ordinary spherical balloon is much simpler and twice as strong as the dirigible. I am firmly convinced that it is possible to attain the South Pole in a balloon upon condition that the greatest prudence and patience are employed."

KITE CARRIES NOTE OVER ENGLISH CHANNEL

PARIS, June 2.—An interesting experiment has been made with a kite as a carrier of messages between England and France. A large kite was recently sent up at Brighton, England. To it was attached a tag requesting the person who found it to return it to the owner.

When the kite reached a certain height the string was cut and it sailed out of sight like a bird. The kite landed some hours later on the shores of Normandy and was picked up by a coast guardman, who filled out the attached blank and sent it back to England by parcel post.

PARIS, June 2.—A new salon is attracting Parisian society. This is the lawyers' exhibition. All the contributors are members of the bar, and the exhibits range from water color sketches to statuary.

Among the most successful exhibitors is Mlle. Chauvin, the clever young Parisian lawyer, who has sent three paintings. There are also on view some water color sketches by the late Min-famous lawyer as well as politician, and a distinguished artist.

WANTS PRISON SENTENCE TO AVENGE HIS MOTHER

Man Invites Being Sent to Joliet in Order to Reach Object of Vengeance.

CHICAGO, June 2.—In order that he may be sent to the Joliet penitentiary and avenge the murder of his mother, Leo Novak has been for some time inviting arrest. The murderer of his mother, a man named Jescovitch, is now serving time at Joliet, according to Novak, and in order to reach him the son is willing to undergo a year or so in the State Institution.

Novak was arrested Wednesday at West Madison and Curtis streets by Lieutenant Howard, of the Desplaines street station, armed with a revolver. He had engaged in a quarrel with several men at that corner, a short time before the arrest, which attracted the officer's attention to him.

On the way to the station Novak was curious to know if he could by any possibility get a sentence to Joliet for carrying the gun. He seemed disappointed when told that he would not, and when pressed for the cause said he would be glad to serve time if he could only meet Jescovitch. He said he formerly lived at 1028 South Sacramento avenue and that Jescovitch had killed his mother in that neighborhood. The police have no recollection of a murder such as he describes at that place.

FILIPINO RECORDS WILL BE PUBLISHED

Documents Captured From Insurgents
Have Been Compiled and Translated.

The selection and translation of records from the collection of some 200,000 documents captured from the insurgents in the Philippines, have been completed in the War Department, and it is proposed to publish them. These documents comprise correspondence of Aguinaldo with his leaders, decrees for the government of the portion of the Philippines under his control, orders issued by his subordinates pursuant to his instructions, and general correspondence. There are also many papers which show the genesis of the movement for independence. These papers contain material for the formation of a definite opinion as to what the government formed by Emilio Aguinaldo and his followers really was, and, accordingly, give a measure for the capacity for historical reasons, as they give the Filipino side of the history of the insurrection. The papers were written in Spanish and Tagalog, and other native languages.

YOUNG WOMEN IN NEW YORK MADE DEPUTY SHERIFFS

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 2.—Two women deputy sheriffs, the first ever appointed in Westchester county, have received their badges from Sheriff James S. Merritt. They are Miss Jessie Long, of White Plains, and her friend, Miss Agnes Kennedy, of Peekskill.

Sheriff Merritt, since he has been in office, has received numerous applications from women who wish to be deputy sheriffs, but he has refused them all. The appointment of the Misses Long and Kennedy were made, it is announced, because they are well known charity workers, and in the employ of the county as agents to investigate homes where it is decided to put children.

The thing that is puzzling the officials at the court house is where the new deputies will carry their clubs and revolvers.
